Frank J. Huszti was my father not only that but my hero. There was a lot of lessons to learn from this very wise man...i may have not listened to all that he had to share but there is one thing that i took to heart before this great man had passed away and that lesson was to be a great, smart and noble person not only that but to be honest to yourself and out of that make an honest living. i will never forget you dad my belief i think in my opinion is that you and everyone who passes on after you will always live on in our memory Love-your Son ,Nicholas J.
