In the late 1970s I was on a bus in Champlain Urbana, headed back to Arlington Heights, absorbing every last second I could interacting with Torrey who was looking at me thru the passenger glass longingly from the platform, I can still see her happy and beautiful face, and I asked her once again ... and she replied 'yes'. My heart actually skipped a beat right then, because I knew we'd be the happy for eternity, and we were, even after we separated; but even then I was never apart, I keep her close to my heart. This is my fondest life memory at 67 years old, something I cherish and carry with me every day.

Torrey and I came up together. She was my best friend for years as we became adults (late 70s) ... and I thought of her every day since we went our seperate ways, Her passing is shock to me. I wish I had known she was sick. I would have came to say so long.I will continue to love her, and think about her daily. It's been a difficult few years. My son Steven died in April of 2009; my mother had a stroke December of 2011 - and now, Torrey's passing.Brian, I am sorry about your loss. The best I can say is thanks for giving her what you did. Mark ... I miss your jokes; and Dana, I hope we can talk someday. I am still in Arlington Heights.I am so sorry.Richard .
